- Mixing the contrast: in the wild, the tiger would be lurking in the long grass near a water hole, hunting plump deer.
- Calling the poem an attack on one cruel keeper; it is a sympathetic comment on keeping wild animals confined.
- Missing the poetic device: contrast between jungle and cage; also alliteration and imagery such as 'quiet rage'.
- Saying the poet is Robert Frost; the poet is Leslie Norris.
- Spelling slips: tiger, cage, lurking, stalking, captivity.
