SECTION — B (Very Short Answer) — Answers — 4 × 2 = 8

Q.	Expected Answer / Value Points	Marks
11	Beauty attracts men to the surface (1) so they do not see the person within (1).	1+1
12	The neat form creates wit and balance (1) so the serious theme is delivered with lightness (1).	1+1
13	Consoling: divine love exists (1). Bleak: human love is limited (1).	1+1
14	She suggests that love can survive a changed appearance (1) and so tests the poet's pessimism (1).	1+1

SECTION — C (Short Answer) — Answers — 4 × 3 = 12

Q.	Expected Answer / Value Points	Marks
15	It sees human love as tied to appearance (1). It leaves unconditional love to the divine (1). This is realistic but pessimistic (1).	1+1+1
16	Pressure of looks (1). Social media (1). Need for authentic relations (1).	1+1+1
17	Anne said, 'I can dye my hair.' (1). Quotation marks (1). Tense changes (1).	1+1+1
	OR: Poet gives the premise (1). Anne challenges it (1). Old man resolves it (1).	1+1+1
18	Few lines (1). Clear claim, counter, conclusion (1). No digression (1).	1+1+1
	OR: Not only is Anne beautiful but she is also witty (1). However, men love her hair (1). Unless she changes, the test will not work (1).	1+1+1

SECTION — D (Long Answer) — Answers — 2 × 5 = 10

	OR: Wit (1). Wisdom (1). Interplay (1). Examples (1). Conclusion (1).	2+2+1

Mistakes to avoid:

- Saying the poet scolds Anne; the poem is a talk between the poet and Anne about being loved for oneself.
- Mixing the idea: young men will not love Anne for herself while her yellow hair attracts them.
- Writing that Anne agrees to dye her hair out of vanity; she says she can dye it brown, black or carrot so that men may love her for herself.
- Missing the old religious man: he says only God can love a person for herself alone, not for outward looks.
- Confusing the poet: W. B. Yeats is an Irish poet; the poem has three stanzas with a repeating refrain.
- Spelling slips: despair, ramparts, honey-coloured, declare, refrain.
