SECTION E — Case / Source Based Questions (4×4=16) — 16 marks

Question Nos. 10 to 13 · each carries 4 marks (1+1+2).

10. Read the paragraph given below and answer the questions that follow: (1+1+2=4)

> On 12 March 1930, Gandhi left the Sabarmati Ashram with seventy-eight followers and walked for twenty-four days to the coastal village of Dandi. On 6 April he picked up a lump of natural salt left by the sea. Under the colonial salt law only the government could make salt, and a tax on it hurt the poor most. The act of defiance was soon copied by thousands of people along the coast, and in many places women were at the front.

(10.1) From which place did the Dandi March begin?

> From the Sabarmati Ashram (near Ahmedabad).

(10.2) Which law did Gandhi break at Dandi?

> The salt law (the British government's monopoly and tax on salt).

(10.3) Why was salt chosen as the symbol of the protest? Give two reasons.

> Any two (1 mark each): used by every household, rich or poor; the tax hurt the poor the most; making salt was easy, so ordinary people could join; it showed that British laws could be defied peacefully.

11. Read the paragraph given below and answer the questions that follow: (1+1+2=4)

> Town Rampur has 60,000 people living in an area of 24 square kilometres. In a particular year 1,500 babies were born and 600 people died there.

(11.1) Calculate the population density of Rampur.

> 60,000 ÷ 24 = 2,500 persons per sq km.

(11.2) Calculate the birth rate of Rampur per 1,000 people.

> (1,500 ÷ 60,000) × 1,000 = 25 per 1,000.

(11.3) Find the death rate per 1,000 and the natural increase per 1,000. What does this show about the town's population?

> Death rate = (600 ÷ 60,000) × 1,000 = 10 per 1,000 (½); natural increase = 25 − 10 = 15 per 1,000 (1); births exceed deaths, so the population is growing (½).

12. Read the paragraph given below and answer the questions that follow: (1+1+2=4)

> Ravi owns a small bakery on a plot of land he has rented. He has an oven and a kneading machine. He pays two helpers wages every week and buys flour and sugar on credit from the market. Ravi himself decided to start the bakery, plans the daily orders and bears the loss if the cakes remain unsold.

(12.1) Name the factor of production represented by the oven and the kneading machine.

> Capital (fixed capital).

(12.2) Which factor of production is Ravi, and what is his reward called?

> Entrepreneurship (the entrepreneur); profit.

(12.3) Name the other two factors in the passage and their rewards.

> Land — rent (1); labour (the two helpers) — wages (1).

13. Read the paragraph given below and answer the questions that follow: (1+1+2=4)

> A food historian writes that many everyday dishes carry the marks of cultural exchange. The samosa has its roots in the Persian sambūseh, the jalebi in the Arabic-Persian zalabiyeh, and the naan is baked in a clay oven, a technique that came with Persian-speaking cooks. At the same time, local ingredients such as spices, ghee and curd changed the foods that the new arrivals brought. Court dress also changed, with the jama and pyjama becoming common.

(13.1) From which word does the samosa get its name?

> Sambūseh (Persian).

(13.2) Name one cooking technique that came with Persian-speaking cooks.

> Baking naan in a clay oven.

(13.3) How does the passage show that cultural exchange was a two-way process? Give one example of dress.

> (1) Foreign dishes changed with local ingredients like spices, ghee and curd, while Indian kitchens adopted new foods; (1) in dress, the jama, pyjama and dupatta (any one) were adopted at court.
