1. Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow. 10

Every village in India has a story hidden in its skyline. A temple spire, a well, a banyan tree and a school building form a small family of places where people meet. These places teach us something that no textbook can: that a community survives because its members look after shared things.

Consider the village pond. In many places it was dug by the people themselves and cleaned each year before the rains. It gave water to cattle, a place for children to swim and a cool spot for elders to talk in the evening. Today, in many places, ponds are filled with garbage or built over. When this happens, the village loses not only water but also a meeting place.

Some villages have shown another path. In one village, youth groups have cleaned the pond, planted trees around it and put up a signboard asking visitors to keep it clean. Within two years, birds returned, and a weekly market began on its bank. The lesson is that public places stay alive only when ordinary people take responsibility for them.

(i) The writer says that village places teach us that: 1

(a) temples are the oldest (b) a community survives by caring for shared things

(c) wells are needed (d) textbooks are useless

(ii) A village pond was used for all EXCEPT: 1

(a) elders talking (b) children swimming

(c) watering cattle (d) running a factory

(iii) When ponds are filled with garbage, a village loses: 1

(a) only birds (b) water and a meeting place

(c) only trees (d) only a path

(iv) The youth groups did all of these EXCEPT: 1

(a) cleaned the pond (b) planted trees

(c) sold the pond (d) put up a signboard

(v) What returned to the village after two years? 1

(a) factories (b) floods (c) birds (d) snakes

(vi) Name two places that form the village's skyline. 1

(vii) How did the villagers earlier keep the pond clean? 1

(viii) What began on the pond's bank? 1

(ix) Find a word that means 'something shared by all people'. 1

(x) What is the lesson of the passage? 1
