	OR: To: commissioner@jaipurmunicipal.example From: ecoclub@mastermindschool.example Subject: Garbage lying outside Mastermind Public School Respected Sir/Madam, On behalf of the students of Mastermind Public School, I wish to bring to your notice the heaps of garbage lying on the road outside our school gate for over a week. The stench is unbearable, stray animals scatter the waste, and there is a danger of disease for the students and the neighbours. I request you to direct the sanitation department to clear the garbage immediately, place dustbins and arrange for daily collection. Your prompt action will be appreciated. Yours faithfully Secretary, Eco Club (Format 1 · Content 2 · Organisation 1 · Language 1)	5
3	The Gift of Life Good morning everyone. Today I want to talk about the simplest way to save a life: donating blood. Every two seconds someone in our country needs blood, whether for an accident, a surgery or a serious illness. Blood cannot be made in a factory; it can only come from a generous donor. A healthy adult can donate blood every three months. The process takes barely thirty minutes, and the body replaces the donated blood within weeks. Yet only a small part of our population donates. Though you are still in school, you can spread the word at home. Ask your parents and elder brothers and sisters to donate. Dispel the myths that donation causes weakness. Let us pledge today that when we are old enough, we shall give the gift of life. Thank you. (Content 2 · Organisation 1 · Expression/Style 1 · Accuracy 1)	5

	OR: Fit Body, Sharp Mind by Arjun/Aarti, Class 9 We often think that students who play are wasting time which could be spent on studies. In fact, fitness and academic performance walk together. A physically active student sleeps better, feels less stressed and concentrates longer. Exercise strengthens the heart and bones and keeps diseases away. Games also teach teamwork, discipline and the ability to accept both victory and defeat. Yet many of us spend hours in front of screens and hardly move. The solution is not difficult. Thirty minutes of running, cycling or yoga every day is enough. Skip the lift and take the stairs. Play with friends in the evening instead of watching television. A healthy body is the first step to a happy and successful life. Let us start today. (Content 2 · Organisation 1 · Expression/Style 1 · Accuracy 1)	5
4	The summer holidays had just begun, and my family was travelling to Delhi by the Shatabdi Express. I had a window seat and was as excited as a bird let out of a cage. As the train left the station, fields and villages rushed past, and boys waved from the level crossings. At noon an old gentleman sitting beside me began to tell stories of his youth, when he had travelled in a steam engine. Time flew while I listened. At one station, a small girl selling guavas smiled at me, and I bought a few for the whole compartment. Toward evening the sky became orange, and the river we crossed shone like gold. I took photographs and wrote a few lines in my diary. When we reached Delhi, I was sorry that the journey had ended. The people I met and the scenery I saw made that journey one that I remember to this day. (Content 2 · Organisation 1 · Expression 2 · Accuracy 1)	6
	OR: Once a poor woodcutter named Ramu lived near a forest. He cut wood by a river every day and sold it in the market. One day, while he was cutting a branch, his axe slipped and fell into the deep water. Ramu sat down on the bank and began to weep, for it was his only axe. Suddenly a river spirit appeared holding a golden axe. 'Is this yours?' she asked. Ramu shook his head. She then showed him a silver axe, but again he said, 'No, mine was an ordinary iron axe.' At last she held up his old iron axe, and his face brightened. 'Yes, this is mine,' he said. The spirit was pleased with his honesty and gave him all three axes. Ramu thanked her and went home happy. When a greedy neighbour tried to copy him, he lost even his own axe. Moral: Honesty is the best policy. (Content 2 · Organisation 1 · Expression 2 · Accuracy 1)	6
