5	Trees are the lungs of the earth. They give us oxygen and absorb carbon dioxide. Their roots hold the soil and prevent floods and erosion. Trees provide food, fuel, timber and medicine. They give shade, attract rain and keep the temperature low. Birds and animals make their homes in them. Yet we cut trees thoughtlessly for roads and buildings. We must plant more trees and protect existing ones. A single tree planted today will serve many generations. (Content 2 · Organisation 1 · Language 1)	4
	OR: Discipline is the key to success in student life. A disciplined student gets up early, plans his day and does his work on time. He obeys his teachers and respects elders. Discipline teaches self-control and responsibility. It helps in games, studies and later in careers. Students who lack it waste time and suffer failures. Schools should therefore make discipline a daily habit through assemblies, games and group activities. (Content 2 · Organisation 1 · Language 1)	4
